

A little reminder

Saturday February 10, 2018

A little reminder, good to remember.

There is no way that one can find or choose a master or guru.

Simply because one does not know what it is.

One does not know the vibration, the wave length.

Because the unconscious or unenlightened state of mind is simply and plainly ignorant.

It also often happens that the ignorant lead the ignorant.

One has to ripen to stumble into the grace of recognizing a real master or guru.

At this point one needs to remember that to be accepted as a disciple always happens from the side of the master, the guru.

Love,
Pan
